THIS WEEK (23)

The meeting was held at Labatt's Alberta Brewery, Calgary Trail, through the courtesy of Manager John Morgan and our own Elmer MacGillivray. Our sincere thanks to Labatt's for the use of their party room, the luncheon, and the refreshments.

President Tom called on Howard Wilson to introduce his guest, nephew Neil Sheidow.

Following lunch, host Elmer showed the audio-visual presentation used by the Calgary Winter Olympic Committee to help win for that city the 1988 Winter Olympic Games.

It was also announced that the Boyle Street Golf Tournament would be held again this year at the Edmonton Country Club. Cost: $96.00 per person. The proceeds are used to provide services for the under-privileged in the Boyle Street area.

The winner of the draw was Russ Carter.

And now a bow to the cliché-killer, Willard Espy.

It Stands to? Reason

To everything its what? Its season.
This statement stands to what? To reason.

What is crushing? Cost.
What is temper? Lost.

What is commentary? Wry.
And wit? Dry.

What are pathways? Winding.
And snowstorms? Blinding.

What does absence render us? Conspicuous.

A miss is as good as what? A mile.
What is durance? Vile.

What's the street of writers? Grub.
There is what? The rub.

If you have a life, you Bet it.
If an appetite, you Whet it.

Conscientious to a? Fault.
I am grinding to a? Halt.

— W.R.E. —

That's all!
